Spokesmen Forecast Veto of Tax Reduction Measure
as Result of Bonus Bill Becoming Law — Coolidge and Supporters See Drain on Treasury Otherwise.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 20.—Veto of the revenue bill, now pending in conference, was forecast at the capitol today in view of previous indications by administration spokesmen that enactment of the bonus bill, passed yesterday, would necessitate disapproval of the tax reduction measure by President Coolidge.

It was recalled that Secretary Mellon, in announcing his tax reduction plan, declared the proposed cut would be impossible if the bonus was allowed. President Coolidge, in his veto message on the bonus, stressed particularly the effect of the bill on the national economy and although he made no direct statement that the bonus would prevent tax reduction, such an inference was drawn by many from his message.

Repassage of the bonus bill by Congress over the veto, it is believed, also may have some effect on the action of the conferees. They complete today the first week of work on the bill, and predictions were made that an early agreement would be forthcoming. The main controversial differences between the Senate and House are all that is left to be worked out.

President Coolidge has declared his opposition to the tax on undistributed corporate profits, substitute for the Senate for the flat corporation levy and to the Senate amendment proposing full publicity of returns.

Representative Garner, Texas, leader of the Democratic conferees from the House, was never openly declared in favor of either proposal, both of which were adopted in the Senate through a Democratic Republican insurgent coalition.

House Democrats, however, are expected to give support to the Senate income rate schedule advanced by Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, as against the Longworth compromise approved by the house.

There is little difference between the two schedules for a maximum surtax rate of 40 per cent., instead of the 37 1/2 per cent. rate in the Longworth scheme.

Senate Republicans, in arguing against the bill as finally passed by that chamber, declared it would bring about a deficit of more than $100,000,000 during the next fiscal year. This estimate, Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, admitted did not take into account the bonus bill, which it had been estimated will entail an additional expense next year of $150,000,000.

Sunday School Workers to Meet Here Wednesday

A conference of all Sunday school workers in the elementary departments of the M. E. church Sunday schools of the city will be held at Main Street M. E. church, Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Junior assembly room. Miss Ethel Smith, of Richmond, superintendent of elementary work of the Sunday schools of the M. E. church in Virginia, will arrive tomorrow and will address the meeting.

The program, consisting of the address by Miss Smith and leading Sunday school teachers in the M. E. Sunday schools of the city, the second devoted to separate conferences for department leaders in the beginning, primary and junior divisions, in which subjects of particular interest to them will be discussed.

Miss Elizabeth Martin, superintendent of elementary Sunday school work in the Methodist Episcopal churches of Danville district, has sent out a circular letter to the teachers and leaders of these branches, urging attendance.

METHODISTS GO BACK ON THEIR ORIGINAL PLAN

(By The Associated Press.)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 20.—Reversing for the second time its former decision, the Methodist Episcopal general conference voted today to keep intact the number of bishops and to elect five to fill vacancies created by death and retirement.

A recommendation that Paris and Helena, Montana, be eliminated as Episcopal areas was amended to restore those centers and was passed as amended with only a few dissenting votes.

Last Saturday, the conference voted for five new bishops. It reconsidered today and ordered the election of three. Today's action was regarded as final.

A charge that the "rich trust" desired the removal of Bishop Francis J. McDonnell from the Pittsburgh area was made by the Rev. William F. Connor, of Pittsburgh, in the course of the discussion, when the elimination of that area was proposed.

PLIGHT OF THE FARMER IS NOW BEFORE HOUSE

Will Decide This Week
Whether McNary-Haugen
Bill Should Be Passed.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 20.—The plight of the farmer today was before the House which probably will decide by the end of the week whether the McNary-Haugen bill should be passed as a relief measure.

The bill, which would set up a government corporation to market surplus farm products abroad, will, under plan of the McNary-Haugen bill, reach a final vote by Saturday with at least two night sessions to speed up consideration. These plans centered about a proposal to limit debate to 15 hours.

Supported by a majority of the agriculture committee, the measure faced a fight on the part of many Republicans and Democrats who consider it unworkable. Several committee members had announced their opposition, although expressing a willingness to permit a vote.

A Senator and His Page

Senator Lee S. Overman of North Carolina thinks a lot of this page boy. And the lad thinks the senator is about the finest man ever. It looks like he will be as big a man, physically, at any rate, as Overman himself, when he grows up.

(Special to The Bee.)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., May 20.—With the release yesterday evening of John G. Eggleston on a bail bond of $1,000 returnable on June 20th with Miss Annie Moore, his niece, as security of official attention centered today on a bloody axe which had been found at the Eggleston home.

This instrument was again today the center of investigation on the theory that it was the weapon with which Mrs. Nancy Graves, 15, Eggleston's daughter, was found dead last April 27th at a point less than half a mile from her home.

The axe was discovered by a member of the board of inquest dining with Eggleston on the day on which the coroner permitted the jurors to go to the home for the purpose of seeking information which might be of aid to them in reaching a verdict. It is believed that the axe was not recognized for axes are used on farms to kill chickens with and the jurors apparently received straight-forward answers concerning its use.

Tests Point to Rebroadcasting On Short Waves

By NEA Service
SCENETADY, N. Y., May 20.—Experiments conducted from station WJY here, point to the adoption of short wave transmission for extremely long distance radio communication.

From a small isolated cabin, especially built for the purpose, engineers of the General Electric Company have been sending out broadcast programs on 107 meters wavelength, which have been picked up and rebroadcast on higher wave lengths by eight British stations.

As high as 10 kilowatts were used in sending, which meant taking special precautions against danger to those handling the apparatus. The transmitting station had to be built in a hut which could not carry metal pencils or watches, and shoes without nails had to be worn.

The short wave signals were transmitted so clearly that rebroadcasting 200 miles away was found easy. Steps have already been taken to establish the rebroadcasting system on a permanent basis.

Once every two weeks it is planned to give British listeners the test of hearing WJY or KDKA at East Pittsburgh, Pa. The broadcasting will take place between 6 and 7 o'clock, eastern standard time, which is between 11 and 12 at night in England.

The American short wave signals are received at an isolated station about 15 miles from London. They are intensified and sent over a line wire to the broadcasting station in London, from which they are rebroadcast on a higher wavelength.

Attack Centered On Interference

NEW YORK, May 20.—The American Radio Association has joined with the Interference Radio Conference in a bitter fight against all kinds of reception interference.

"This campaign," explains Prof. L. A. Hazeltine, chairman of the conference, "marks the beginning of the first nationwide determined effort to bring about peace in the air, and it will be followed vigorously until various kinds of interference are eliminated from the air. Unless something is done quickly, the interference problem will seriously affect the progress of radio."

Both organizations will strive to eliminate interference caused by improper use of radiating receivers, by ships and commercial stations, faulty reception, transmission lines and other disturbing influences.

ROYAL RECEIVER

King George of England can listen in on a broadcasting station he desires in England or elsewhere, with the seven-tube receiver made for him by Captain P. P. Eckersley, chief engineer of the British Broadcasting Company. The set is in a mahogany cabinet and is ivory and redwood on an ebony stand.

DE FOREST WINS PATENT RIGHTS

By NEA Service
WASHINGTON, May 20.—Lee De Forest, famous radio engineer, has been established as the real inventor of the three-element radio tube as well as the feed back and regenerative receiving circuit.

This has come about by a decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to which suits covering these patents had been brought. It nullifies the claims of Edwin H. Armstrong, Alexander Meissner, German radio expert, and Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Company.

COMMUNION BROADCAST

Rev. A. Edwin Keigwin, pastor of the West End Presbyterian Church in New York, recently broadcast communion services by radio. Listeners in many sections of the country were permitted to partake of the sacramental wine.

MANY ALIENS ARE "BOOTLEGGED" AT DETROIT

CROWDS LEAVING AN IMMIGRATION SHED AT DETROIT.

By ROY J. GIBBONS
DETROIT, May 17.—Hundreds of aliens, denied admission to the United States through legal channels, are "bootlegged" across the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers every night, declares P. L. Prentiss, in charge of the 11th immigration district.

He does not attempt to estimate the number smuggled across the line each year through Detroit, which is believed to be one of the principal centers for such activities.

Several methods are used to "bootleg" aliens into the United States. A known ring on the Canadian side transports aliens at from $10 to $25 a head across the river in small boats.

These smugglers have recently been so bold that they carry on their operations in broad daylight.

Other aliens effect an entrance by posing as American citizens when they arrive on the numerous ferry boats plying between Detroit and Canada.

These ferries carry monthly 500,000 passengers. Great numbers of other foreigners are hidden in box cars on the Canadian side, and, after passing through the Michigan Central Railroad tunnel under the Detroit River, make good their escape hundreds of miles from the border.

Dr. Prentiss says he is powerless to check this "back door" entrance. He has but 54 employees to aid him. Most of this force is detailed to clerical duty.

Inspectors, hard to find because of the inadequate salaries paid, are all needed at the ferry slips to examine passengers dumped upon the American side at five-minute intervals.

Immigration inspectors stationed at the ferry docks are faced with a tremendous task. Playing at the game of "guess who I am, you are able," these agents must make pretense of sorting the multitude.

Often times there is nothing in the appearance of mixed English stock arriving from Canada to differentiate them from typical American citizens who have crossed over for a holiday and are permitted to return without passport.

That is why inspectors resort to cunning tricks to aid them in their trade. The inspectors say, by mail-order house variety of clothing and ruddy complexions.

Canadians also wear their hats straight while Americans nearly always pull theirs down with some degree of rakish tilt.

With an actual coast line of almost 340 miles, extending from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to Port Clinton, O., for which he is held responsible, Dr. Prentiss has only two inspectors for patrol duty at night. He has no boats or armed forces.

Deportations are few because scarcely any of the smuggled aliens are caught.

The law permits any foreigner who has lived across the border for five years to come into the United States. Many aliens who have lived in Canada but a few months try to get by under this provision with forged credentials and affidavits testifying to their longer residence.

Canadian hotel keepers have told Prentiss that numerous smuggling rings in Canada were ruining their business by openly soliciting aliens arriving from Canadian seaports and herding them into concentration camps until an opportunity presented for ferreting them across to the American side.

"The situation is grievous and has been so for years," Dr. Prentiss informs.

"I have no doubt but that smuggling operations will be redoubled during the present year due to recent Congressional action cutting down the number of aliens permitted to enter through legal channels.

"Canadian officials, however, are rendering every sort of assistance and co-operation to help us check the traffic."

"They are handicapped, though, because they cannot prevent any person leaving their country who has gained legal entrance."

"There is scarcely any sort of adequate patrol to prevent crossing. Just now, the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers seem to be the hunting ground of the numerous smuggling rings, which we know are thriving from a prosperous business in contraband aliens."

THE THEORY BOY WAS MOONSHINERS' VICTIM

(By The Associated Press.)
HARRISBURG, Pa., May 19.—Threats alleged to have been made to the life of Harry Ganster, Marysville High School senior, as a result of his activities against mountain moonshiners more than a year ago tonight occupied the attention of state police and county officials investigating the killing of the school boy and Leah Ellenberger, Hollidaysburg teacher, found shot to death at Lamb's Gap, near here, Saturday.

Support for the theory that the two were victims of a moonshiner's revenge were furnished to the officers by the boy's brother, A. Clinton Ganster, who arrived home today from Kansas City, where he has been attending school. He declared men interested in the moonshine operations had threatened to kill his brother if he did not keep out of the mountain region.

He has been taking photographs of stills that he encountered in his wanderings.

To this theory, members of the Ganster family clung today, asserting their belief that a sentinel maintained near the moonshiners near the lonely mountain road, fired the shot that killed both the boy and girl. Ganster, according to members of his family, became dissatisfied with results after he had reported the moonshining operations, and when threats upon his life reached the family, he agreed to keep away from the scene. Prior to the automobile trip after wild flowers with Miss Ellenberger, Friday afternoon, he had not visited the mountains in months, so far as the investigators could learn.

State police continued today to scour mountain trails for miles about the scene of the shooting.

Three other theories, one of mistaken identity on the part of an enraged husband, seeking his wife in the company of another man, another of jealous rivalry for the girl's affections, and the third of a marksman shooting at a target were discounted as a result of the day's developments, although officers continued to investigate them.

She took the morning train to Richmond

IT ARRIVED promptly at 9:45. Richmond! The name thrilled Helen to the heart. She almost ran down the car steps to the station platform and up the easy incline to the great marble concourse of Broad Street Station! It was not her first visit, but Helen loved Richmond. She loved its beauty, its historical traditions, and most of all, its shops.

With impulsive disregard for her conscience, Helen chose a taxi rather than the convenient street car that stopped directly in front of the station. "Miller & Rhoads," she told the driver, with the air of one who knows exactly where to go in Richmond.

In a moment Helen found herself at the entrance to the South's greatest department store. She did not go in directly, but walked completely around the store, for she loved to "window shop." It was the first time she had seen the windows in the new store, and they were perfectly beautiful with their displays of fashion's newest creations.

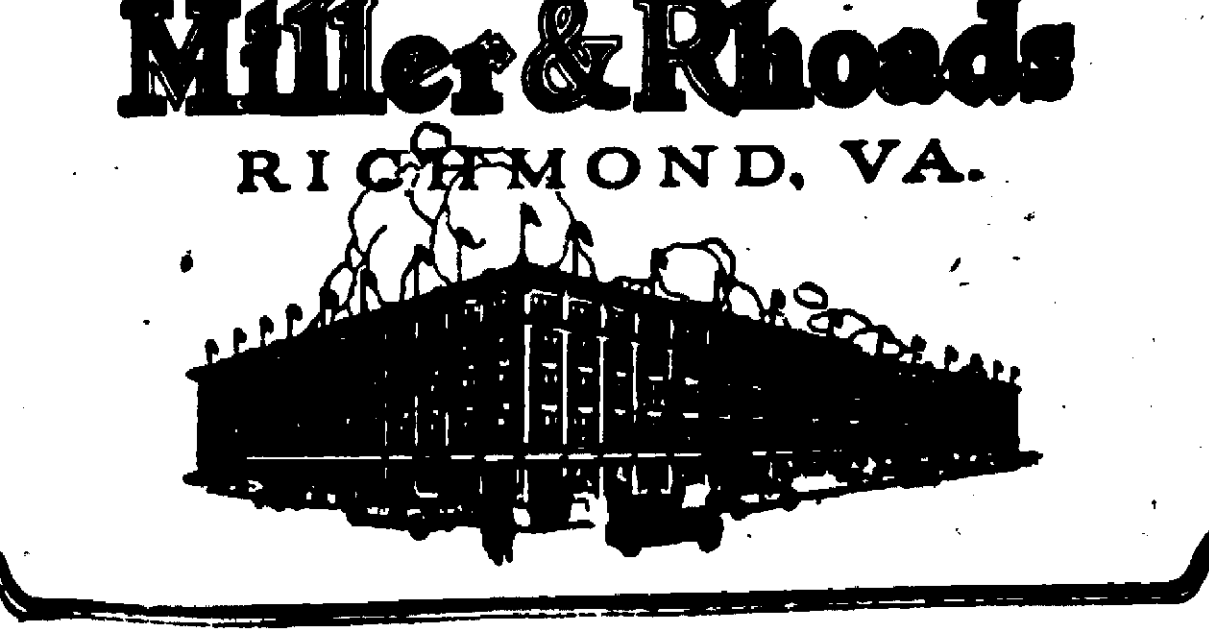

Inside the store, her first step was to check her traveling bag. Then to a comfortable rest-room to telephone Louise to meet her on the fifth floor for luncheon.

That done, Helen sought the elevators, and found them, centrally located, six in a row, each with its neatly uniformed and courteous attendant.

Getting off at the second floor, she found herself right in the midst of the loveliest display of dresses she had ever laid eyes on. These dresses were the kind she could not buy anywhere outside of Richmond, except, of course, in New York and places like that. There were satins and satin crepes, crepe de chine and novelty silks. Some were trimmed in lace in the newest ways, and there were the gayest summer colors too. Helen could hardly decide whether she liked the Peggy Paige frock of rose-gray crepe satin or the lovely girdled frock of green silk crepe. She knew they were all the very latest word in style, for she had learned by experience that Miller & Rhoads are not only Fashion Right, but Fashion First. She finally selected two dresses, one for afternoon and one for sport wear.

With a feeling of perfect satisfaction in her purchase, Helen looked at her watch. It was twelve-thirty, and she had promised to meet Louise at twelve for lunch!

(Helen is just one of the thousands of women, many of them from your own community, who do their shopping at Miller & Rhoads when in Richmond.)

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CAR-
TON, CONTINUED

I confess, Syd, I was a little afraid that Sally Atherton would shock mother with some of her unconventional speeches, but much to my surprise she immediately made herself very interesting. She asked mother all sorts of things about the family tree, which, of course, was the most flattering thing she could have done. Also she waxed eloquent over all that old furniture that Leslie has put into the house, particularly that old desk that mother gave to Leslie as a wedding present.

Mother told her that she was satisfied that desk contained a secret drawer, but that she never had been able to find it, and that Leslie had not seemed to, either.

"It wouldn't be secret very long if Leslie found it," interrupted. "She never keeps anything from me, you know."

"Oh, I wouldn't be too sure of that," remarked Mrs. Atherton. "There isn't a person in the world that hasn't a secret drawer somewhere—some place where he or she hides away things that they would tell to no one, no matter how much that one was loved. It may only be a secret place in her heart."

"I am glad to find you acknowledge such a thing as a heart," I could not resist remarking for her ear alone.

To my surprise mother nodded her head in confirmation of Mrs. Atherton's surprising assertion and said, "I know this is true John, as long as and as intimate as was our married life, there were some thoughts in my brain some desires in my heart, that I could never tell him."

I know, Syd, that my face expressed my surprise—to think that my mother, conventional and puritanical as she is should still find that there are things that she must not tell her husband. It set me wondering. I've always been so sure that Leslie keeps nothing from me, I've always been so certain that keeping ones secrets as purely a masculine prerogative, that the idea was disturbing. I must have shown this in my face, for Mrs. Atherton spoke in answer to my expression, for I had said nothing.

"One of the most interesting phases of life to me is the fact of masculine egotism. Every man thinks that he is not only the real custodian of his wife's soul, but the repository of her innermost thoughts. There's one part of the masculine service that he takes seriously, and that is that marriage has made him and his wife one. He emphatically, however, believes he is the one. If he gets the slightest suspicion that his wife has a different opinion marriage then and there is not a success in his estimation."

HELPFUL HINTS

REMOVES SALT
If you have put too much salt into your soup, add a few slices of raw potato to it and remove them after they have been boiled a few minutes. They will have absorbed much of the salt.

GOLD FURNITURE
Gold furniture should be dusted very lightly with a soft cotton-flannel cloth—never rubbed.

MENDING RUBBERS
When children's overshoes have worn so that they are leaky, use adhesive tape to mend the holes.

TO COOK BEANS
Add baking soda to the water when cooking navy beans and they will not need to be soaked overnight.

SEPARATES STAMPS
To separate stamps that have stuck together, lay a piece of tissue paper over them and run a hot iron over that. They will come apart easily after that.

BEFORE SEWING
Before you do very fine sewing it is well to wash your hands in alum water.

CLEANING MIXTURE
Whiting and cold water mixed to a paste will clean mother-of-pearl articles perfectly.

REMOVES INK
Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will remove indelible in stains.

IRONING NAPKINS
Iron your linen table napkins on both sides if you wish them to be perfectly smooth and satiny.

FOLLOW GRAM
When ironing a circular centerpiece follow the straight grain of the cloth and the edges will be perfectly flat.

ALLEGED BANDITS DIE BUT WON'T GIVE UP

(By The Associated Press.)
TILTONVILLE, Ohio May 19.—A sensational automobile chase and running pistol duel between three Pennsylvania state policemen and two alleged bandits ended late today when one of the men sought, Jack Stumny shot and killed himself, and his companion, Nick Baracetti, alias John Tenth shot and probably fatally wounded himself. Baracetti was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. The two men were wanted in connection with a $10,000 payoff holdup at Moosick, Pennsylvania last July. The fatal shooting occurred in an isolated street car station on the outskirts of the town where the two men had taken refuge after they abandoned their automobile. The officers approaching the depot declared they saw Baracetti shoot his companion and then himself, but a coroner's jury tonight held that Stumny died by his own hand. Both had been wounded several times in the previous shooting.

The three officers said they were sent to investigate a report that the bandit suspects were here. They recognized them at the Tiltonville post office, but the men fled in an automobile with the officers in pursuit. About two miles from the town the suspects abandoned their automobile and barricaded themselves in the street car depot.

BECOMING DESIGN
Rose colored voile dotted in green would make this design a frock your friends would envy. Drop stitch voile, cotton crepes either plain or printed are suitable too. For a warm weather "best" silk crepe is suggested.

The dress is easy to make, for it cuts in one with a set-in long or short sleeve. Inverted pleats laid at the underarms below the waistline add to its attractiveness and lend grace and freedom to your stride.

The pattern for No. 2122 cuts in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. In the medium size, 3/4 yards of 36 or 40-inch goods with 2 1/2 yards of binding and 3/4 yards of ribbon is required. Price 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

DEBUTANTES REHEARSE

(Copyright 1924 by Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, May 19.—Rehearsals of court debutantes for the Tuesday and Wednesday courts are now in full swing, and American women who will be presented to King George and Queen Mary on those nights are busy learning how to wear court trains, make curtseys and carry a bouquet with feathers.

The procedure is much less complicated than in former years as for one thing the court trains are not longer than eight or ten feet and not so hard to manage. The job of getting across the floor of Buckingham palace before hundreds of critical eyes is enough to frighten any debutante, however, and deportment teachers, such as the famous Alice Hall, have been reaping a harvest this week among the American women as Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Washington and Miss Mina Brookaw of New York.

NUMBER OF FIGHTERS INJURED IN A FIRE IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, May 19.—Three fire chiefs, a lieutenant and thirty firemen were injured in fighting a fire in a ten-story building at Broadway and Grand street tonight. The loss was estimated at $250,000. One of those injured was Honorary Chief Albert N. Murphy.

The fire started in a shoe factory and spread to the third floor where huge quantities of rubber were stored.

Six companies of firemen fought the flames. One entire company was overcome while trying to subdue the fire in the basement.

Back drafts blew out all the windows on one side causing severe injuries to eighteen firemen.

PRESBYTERIANS PASS OVER FIRST ENCOUNTER WITH "MODERNISM"

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. May 20.—The Presbyterian church in the United States apparently has passed safely over its first encounter with the system of biblical interpretation known as "Modernism" in its sixty-fourth general assembly in session here having declined to be drawn into a controversy through an official act.

A simple, straightforward reaffirmation of the fundamental faith of the church as set out in its confessions is the present entry on the records of the assembly. In at least one more problem must the issue be faced, however, and that is on the question of withdrawing support from the mission school of Nanking, China, some teachers in which have been charged with "modernistic" leanings. The issue will arise when the report of the foreign missions committee is

Amendments to the rules of discipline were adopted to give the church courts more discretion as to the manner of inflicting censures and to remove ambiguities. The idea of the discipline of the church was expressed in this paragraph:

"To make prominent the idea that the church is a family and every member presumed to be a true member of the household.

The discipline, therefore, should be that of the family and not of the state and it is important to put emphasis on discipline in the general sense of nurture, instruction, training and sympathetic guidance and that by sympathetic discipline the spiritual welfare and sense of the church should be ready aim of the whole process along with the eradication of the

BACKYARD PLAYGROUNDS

By W. C. BATCHELOR

GIVE CHILDREN A YARD SWING

This is the second of a series of 10 articles on the construction and use of playground equipment adapted to the back yard.

A swing is one of the most popular diversions for either a boy or a girl. We never quite outgrow the pleasurable sensation resulting from our bodies traveling through the air. It may be by means of a swing, a broad jumping pole vault, a dive, riding in an automobile, an airplane, or a mechanical device at an amusement park. Once fear is overcome the pleasure is universal, therefore, in the construction of a swing, is safety.

A swing should be built by a good workman. Iron pipe is preferable for the framework, but with care a safe and substantial swing frame may be built of wood at a considerable saving. Ten feet is a good height. The seat should be 20 inches from the ground.

The accompanying sketch indicates a safe method of construction. Material for frame:

Two pieces, 4 inches by 4 inches by 13 feet (uprights)

Four pieces, 2 inches by 4 inches by 8 feet (braces)

One piece, 4 inches by 4 inches by 6 feet (cross bar)

One pound No. 20 casing nails (Approximate cost $3.50)

The joints should be mortised, bound with band iron, or braced with 2 by 4 inch cleats.

If an iron frame is desired, the following materials are needed:

Two pieces 3 inch pipe, 13 feet.

One piece 3 inch pipe, 6 feet.

Two 3-foot elbows.

Two 3-foot flanges.

(Approximate cost $18.67)

For galvanized pipe and malleable fittings, add about 25 per cent.

If set 3 feet in concrete, no braces are necessary.

Chain is superior to rope for the swing. Hangers should be of roller or ball-bearing type to avoid wear.

Hangers, or swings complete with hangers, may be purchased from local sporting goods dealers. For children up to 5 or 6 years, a baby swing of the chair type is preferable.

Material for swing:

Eighteen feet of bulldog chain No. 4-0, 90 cents

One piece, 2 inches by 8 inches by 20 inches, 15 cents

Two ball-bearing hangers. (For wood frame, $4.28.)

(For pipe frame, $5.75)

Instead of ball-bearing hangers, a blacksmith will make either of the two hangers shown in the upper left-hand corner of the diagram for about one dollar.

The steel link swing is ready-made with ball-bearing hangers. (For wood frame, $9.00; for pipe frame, $9.50)

The chair swing is ready-made with ball-bearing hangers. (For wood frame, $7.50; for pipe frame, $8.50)

An old automobile tire, suspended by a rope or chain, makes a very good improvised swing, and, if hung about 3 feet from the ground, also answers the purpose of a trapeze for small children.

(The third article of this series, telling how to build a horizontal bar in your yard, will appear tomorrow.)

City Democrats To Meet Tuesday

Danville Democrats will meet at the Municipal hall on Tuesday, May 27th—one week from tonight—for the purpose of selecting the city's quota of nineteen delegates to the Norfolk State convention of the party in June. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock one week from tonight and will be called to order by City Chairman Malcolm K. Harris. A chairman will then be selected and the meeting will be ready for business.

No suggestion has yet been made as to the plan of apportioning the delegates among the wards, for it is regarded as likely that such a division of these honors will be made as has been the case for years past. The selection of three delegates from each ward and one from the city at large would make up the nineteen, unless some other plan is proposed.

The delegates chosen will probably be empowered to select their own alternates, and the usual rule is to adopt a resolution authorizing and empowering those delegates attending the convention to elect all the nineteen votes. Whether the State convention will undertake to pass a resolution instructing the delegates for some candidate for the presidency or not is uncertain, but the body at Norfolk will in all probability instruct the Virginia delegation at New York to vote for Senator Carter Glass when his name is brought before the convention.

The city convention next Tuesday may or may not designate a resolutions committee, but generally such resolutions as are before such a body are offered from the floor and acted on without reference to a committee.

Many people are inclined to believe that not more than two thousand Danville voters will cast their ballots in the June election, but by November the local electorate will be potentially four thousand or more.

WELL KNOWN JURIST DIES OF APOPLEXY

(By The Associated Press)

RALEIGH, N. C., May 19.—Citizens of North Carolina tomorrow will be given an opportunity to pay homage to the memory of the late Chief Justice Walter Clark of the North Carolina Supreme Court who died this morning after an illness of twenty hours with apoplexy. From 11 o'clock until three o'clock in the afternoon, the body of the distinguished jurist will lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol.

The funeral services will be held at the Central Methodist church at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon and interment will follow in Oakwood cemetery in the family plot.

Today the capitol was closed out of respect to the deceased jurist. Governor Morrison tonight issued a statement declaring that a figure had passed away which would be sorely missed. The Supreme Court adjourned when the news was received of the Chief Justice's death, which occurred shortly before 9 o'clock.

Chief Justice Clark never rallied after the attack which smote him down yesterday shortly before midnight. Sinking into unconsciousness almost immediately, he continued to sink slowly during the day and last night was reported close to death.

Then, shortly after midnight, he was said to be holding his own in a last rally, as it proved, against death, for

The Chief Justice was in his 78th year and was completing his 30th year as a judge, then associate justice, then chief justice of the state.

BARTERING, NOW AND THEN

The golden rule of all business and trade is that familiar adage "fair exchange is no robbery." Familiarity with this history-old rule has bred increasing faith in it rather than contempt. The world recognizes the existence of such a thing as "fair exchange," and with the passing of the years the tendency has been more and more toward the realization of fair exchange values.

Nothing is more erroneous than the often-heard remark that trade is only for merchants, that the consumer has no participation in business. The truth is that both sides of every transaction are tradesmen. The customer exchanges money for the goods of the merchant. The employee trades labor for the capital of the employer. The manufacturer trades his products for the capital of the storekeeper. One nation exchanges its products for those of another nation.

Trade was called bartering among the ancients and the barbarians and their market was the bazaar. The individuals of the villages and the camps bartered among each other. There was bartering among the communities of each country, and there was bartering through ships and caravans between the most ancient of nations. Bartering exists today on a much greater and more scientific plan than it did in earlier times, but every human being is now, as then, engaged in bartering.

Psychologists parallel the stages of human life with the stages of the evolution of humanity. How true is the parallel in regards to exchange. The tiny infant trades accontented coo and sweet peace for his nurse. As soon as he learns to talk the boy bargains with his playmates for the exchange of toys, pets and candy. Children are also schooled in the bartering of good behavior for candy, money and gifts. As youth matures it exchanges play hours for knowledge. Then there is a period when labor is bartered for money and finally capital is exchanged for interest and an income for those whose work is done.

THREE LITTLE MAIDS

All unwary, a trio of Smith College seniors was observed puffing cigarettes in a tea-room near the school. It was another student who witnessed their act, wherefore it might be assumed by the unenlightened that they should have been perfectly safe. There is nothing quite so reprehensible as "peaching," according to a widely accepted code of ethics. But it seems the honor system goes at Smith. The observer's honor would not permit her to remain silent with respect to the delinquency of the three. She told and they have been sent home for violation of the school rule against smoking "in dormitories or about the college."

As for the offense of the three little maids, it is worth mentioning that they have not been disciplined for smoking, but for choosing not wisely the place of their communing with Lady Nicotine. Here is a distinction that will afford comfort to smokers in the feminine gender. It signifies that school authorities, who once would have made the use or non-use of tobacco by girls a test of character on which they might base decisions to admit or exclude them, have been instructed by the courts before which questions involving discipline for smoking have been raised. Rules of conduct enforceable on the school premises do not "go" when the pupils are out of faculty jurisdiction. Further, it appears the courts, and probably school authorities, have concluded that the smoking tide is going against the objectors and it is useless to resist it beyond reasonable limits.

That girls and women in rapidly increasing numbers are taking to cigarettes is plain to all observers of current tendencies. Experience has shown the futility of attempting to alter a trend of this sort by prohibitions. If the girls will smoke, they will, and that's the end of it. Quite likely they soon will be smoking on school premises where now they are forbidden simply because it will be deemed better to avoid clandestine indulgence, always fraught with added evils.

THE LAW'S DELAYS

In China they still have an ancient law by which, when a bank fails, the banker is beheaded. This may seem barbarous to some Americans. But only one bank has failed in China in over 400 years.

Strict enforcement of the law, regardless of the wealth and influence of the lawbreaker, always has a tendency to prevent crime. And it makes the government more substantial and enduring, for a government is built on quickhands when the people do not have confidence in the integrity and impartial justice of courts.

We have in mind, in particular, the excellent public service performed by Judge Jesse D. Wall of Kansas in sentencing the convicted president of a defunct bank to 45 years in prison and $45,000 fine. This was the absolute limit possible under the law.

There can be no firm public confidence in the courts when the rich, by reason of being able to hire lawyers who find loopholes in the law and methods of delay, have the advantage over defendants whose purse cannot afford such costly but effective dodging.

The courts themselves are theoretically impartial as to the wealth or poverty of defendants. So are the laws. The trouble is, the laws are full of loopholes.

These loopholes frequently are in the nature of intended safeguards for people accused of crimes. But, given a rich client, a shrewd lawyer can find enough of these loopholes to delay a case almost interminably. The poor man cannot afford such lawyers.

One great weakness of our laws—and a weakness that is employed to keep rich offenders out of jail, is our foolish procedure of abiding by technicalities of the law rather than the plain meaning and intent of the law.

By citing precedents and starting arguments, the rich man's lawyer battles over the interpretation and technicalities of the law itself, even more than the question of guilt or innocence.

We need simpler laws, quicker justice—and more judges like Wall, inexorably going hammer and tongs after offenders regardless of wealth and standing.

In New York

NEW YORK, May 20.—The women of New York are far more martial than the women of London, according to an Englishman who is making his first visit to America.

American women are more masculine, he declares, and not nearly so sweet, friendly and affectionate as the British ladies.

Comparing our cabarets with the night clubs of London he finds little, except the American music, that holds a candle to the electric-light life in his jolly town.

In London it is considered quite proper for pretty girls to frequent high-grade night clubs, unchaperoned, and dance, eat and drink with unattached makes who frequent the resorts for a bit of recreation.

He in New York he found no such places. All the girls were accompanied by friends.

"Your wild New York, about which I have heard so much, is really mild," he remarked.

He in the wicked city is merely a Sunday School term.

Usually it is a very difficult task to get to the window of any of the banks in the downtown financial district. Lines of men and women patiently await their turn with the men who dole out money with cautious fingers.

But "Scotty," king of the messenger boys, never wastes a moment. Known to all banks in the district, he walks up to the front of the bank, with all the bravado and importance of a bank president, transacts his business with a gusto—then smiles sweetly as he begins to object.

He is "Zip," a relic of the days when P. T. Barnum had his first museum—the foundation for his gigantic circuses—at Broadway and Ann street, back in 1855.

Zip is variously described as a descendant of the Aztec tribes and the tree climbers. He is said to be 80 years old. He was one of Barnum's first attractions. Zip then was 21. He speaks no word of English, but is one of America's best pointers—He is usually called "Zip" and he is called "Zip" by the police, the fire department, the school authorities, who once would have made the use or non-use of tobacco by girls a test of character on which they might base decisions to admit or exclude them, have been instructed by the courts before which questions involving discipline for smoking have been raised. Rules of conduct enforceable on the school premises do not "go" when the pupils are out of faculty jurisdiction. Further, it appears the courts, and probably school authorities, have concluded that the smoking tide is going against the objectors and it is useless to resist it beyond reasonable limits.

A political platform must be very strong because the opposition usually jumps up and down on it.

No woman with her hair done up in papers looks half as bad as she thinks she looks.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, May 20.—(Grapevine Wireless).—Just as one expects some folks to get shot when the hunting season opens, it is in order to drop a word of caution to the early swimmers who venture in new waters. Be sure you can swim and then go ahead.

Here's a little story with a sad ending. Two brave girls had ventured in swimming. It was in the country and so they thought that they were safe, and as far as I am concerned they were. They were enjoying themselves as girls will do when they are alone, and were frolicking joyfully in the water. It was such fun. And not once did they think of any one saving them. No one did see them but a group of boys did find their clothes. It was such fun. And their clothes were duly knotted as country boys will do, with water and sand. Then they scampered home.

The girls were still playing in the water when, all of a sudden, a strong under-current took them.

For the second time they came up, then the third.

Then no more.

The joke was on the boys after all.

"Mother, may I go out to swim?"

"Yes, my darling daughter—but hang your clothes on a hickory limb and don't go near the water!"

Life's Darkest Moment

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

by RUBY AYRES
© NIA SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proves unhappy. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly under the care of Mary Furnival. Nigel is killed and Dolly marries an old sweetheart and sails with him for America.

When Nigel's brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for Nigel's wife and takes her to live at Red Grange with his aunt.

Mary is happy in her new home until Monty Fisher exposes her to David. Mary disappears. Monty's sister, Dora, is jealous of David's attentions to Mary. Dora wants to marry David and is afraid that he is in love with Mary.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

For now she knew that it had not only been her imagination that David was unduly attentive to Mary; that it was a reality—that in all probability David was in love with her.

In love! With that white-faced, silent woman? She should never have said that. She should never have said that. She should never have said that. She should never have said that.

So that was the truth, at last! This woman was not Nigel's wife, but an adventuress who had chafed for her place!

She paced her room half the night; he would marry David whatever happened. He would marry David whatever happened. He would marry David whatever happened. He would marry David whatever happened.

She did not trouble herself with details of the story; she never gave Nigel's real wife a thought; all that mattered to her was to prevent Mary from getting the money she wanted.

When they met at breakfast, but apparently she was smiling, and untroubled. She made herself charming to David; she spoke to him sympathetically, as if she was unhappy and in trouble; she tactfully left the two men together as soon as the meal was over.

But they went out of the house almost immediately. He must be up and doing every moment of delay gave Mary a better chance to get away.

But there was so little they could do. A followed Monty about the whole morning, doing everything that was possible; his first outburst of anger came when Fisher said, smiling:

"Now we can only sit down and wait patiently."

David caught up the word with passion.

"Wait? When anything may be happening to her? Surely there must be something we can do! I can stand anything but this inaction. You don't know how I blame myself. I ought to have guessed what she would do."

It seemed a thousand times more desirable now that in all probability it would never be hers. She started up impatiently and walked on over the soft grass.

All her life she had never been thwarted, she would win now—she would!

She raised her head with a fierce gesture of defiance, and saw Mary Furnival coming through the sunshine towards her.

The two girls were quite close together, and it was possible that Mary would have turned back; but recognizing that it was too late, she stood her ground.

Dora Fisher was a quick thinker; in an instant she had decided upon her plan of campaign. She went forward with hand outstretched.

"I was just thinking about you, Oh, you poor dear! Whatever will you do?"

Mary had flushed when she first saw Dora, but she was pale enough again now even her lips looked white.

"Don't understand you. I—I—" she faltered, and broke down.

"We know everything, of course," Dora went on, in her soft, silky voice. "David is staying with us now; he came up to us directly. Oh, I am so sorry for you!"

The words sounded genuine enough, her beautiful face was full of sympathy.

She gave Mary no time to answer, but went on:

"David is simply furious, of course. He won't listen to reason at all. He thought Monty and I have both done our best for you. He simply won't believe that you just did it on the impulse of the moment. He talks as if you were some horrid adventuress. As if it were true! Why, I liked you from the very first moment I saw you!"

"He—he is furious—ah me?"

Chapter LII
Dora's Plan

"You know what the Brethertons are," said Dora—"such a proud lot! I suppose he hates to feel that he has been deceived. I suppose he is angry for Nigel's sake, too."

"He has every right to be—there is no doubt about that. But I never meant to stay; it was only—that I just wanted to see the Red Grange again."

Mary hardly knew why she defended herself to this girl; instinctively she trusted her; but she was longing to hear something of David. Already it seemed years since she last saw him; already her heart was crying out for him. He held her hand; she patted it soothingly. "You need not be afraid that I shall tell him I have seen you; I wouldn't think of telling him. I have never seen him so dreadfully angry before. She cast her eyes down effectively. "And I know him pretty well," she added, softly.

Mary's heart gave a little throb of pain. This girl was so beautiful, she realized it afresh as she looked at her now.

David had denied once that she was anything to him. Miss Varney had denied it, too—but was it true?

She drew her hand gently away. "I am afraid I must be going."

"I am afraid I must be going," Dora gave a little protesting cry. "I don't want to help you. Don't you believe I am your friend?"

"You are very kind, but I don't think I want any friends. All my life I seem to have been without them, except—"

TODAY'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By HARRY R. HUNT

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Pigs are not just pigs to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. To Capper, pigs signify, above all else, opportunity.

That's why Capper is prouder of being the father of the Capper Pig Clubs than he is of having been governor of his State or of his present seat in the United States Senate.

Years ago Capper found in his mail an appeal from a boy who wanted to buy a pig. His plea for a pig was so genuinely that of an ambitious youngster who wanted the porker as a teacher on the ladder of advancement, that Capper decided to take a chance.

He wrote the youngster a letter of commendation and encouragement, enclosing a check for enough money to buy a pig, but stipulating that the money was a loan, not a gift, and should be repaid out of profits after a year had been developed.

This first pig thrived, produced in kind and the boy, prospering, repaid the loan. Capper felt the glow of having accomplished a real service. He would extend the idea. The Capper Pig Clubs were the result.

In these clubs, Capper goes into partnership with each member, advancing enough cash to enable the boys to start their heads, always stipulating that they buy pure bred stock. To date he has advanced more than $100,000 to his boy partners, without any security other than the boy's honor. But he has never lost a dollar so advanced.

With the pig clubs for boys established, the idea was broadened to include poultry clubs for girls. And these have been equally successful.

Childless himself, Capper has his greatest pleasure in hearing of the success of these boys and girls whom he has assisted to start in life. The benefits have not been economic, alone, he feels.

More than the financial aid this assistance has given the youth of his State, he believes, is the growth in character and initiative that has been developed through these clubs. He feels he is helping Kansas produce not only better pigs and poultry, but better men and women.

The Proclamation of Emancipation was written in Washington.

The fourteenth amendment to the Constitution, establishing the civil and legal equality of whites and blacks, was enacted in Washington.

Washington, as the nation's capital, should, one would think, be the city where all citizens would be upheld and where racial and group prejudices would be minimized. But—and this is just a typical instance—

When it became known that the Political Campaign Club of the District of Columbia, slated to meet in one of the fashionable hotels, would be attended by blacks as well as whites, notice was served by the management that all colored visitors would be required to use the "service elevator."

The sessions were held at another hotel where the color bar was not in effect.

THE SOLAR MELTING MACHINE IT HAS PRODUCED A TEMPERATURE OF 15,000 DEGREES.

THE MACHINE THAT CONVERTS SUN'S RAYS INTO INDUSTRIAL POWER UNITS

By A. H. FREDERICK

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Old Sol may be turning the wheels of industry one of these days.

Marcel Moreau, San Franciscan, has invented three machines obtaining their power from the sun's rays, which, he says, will:

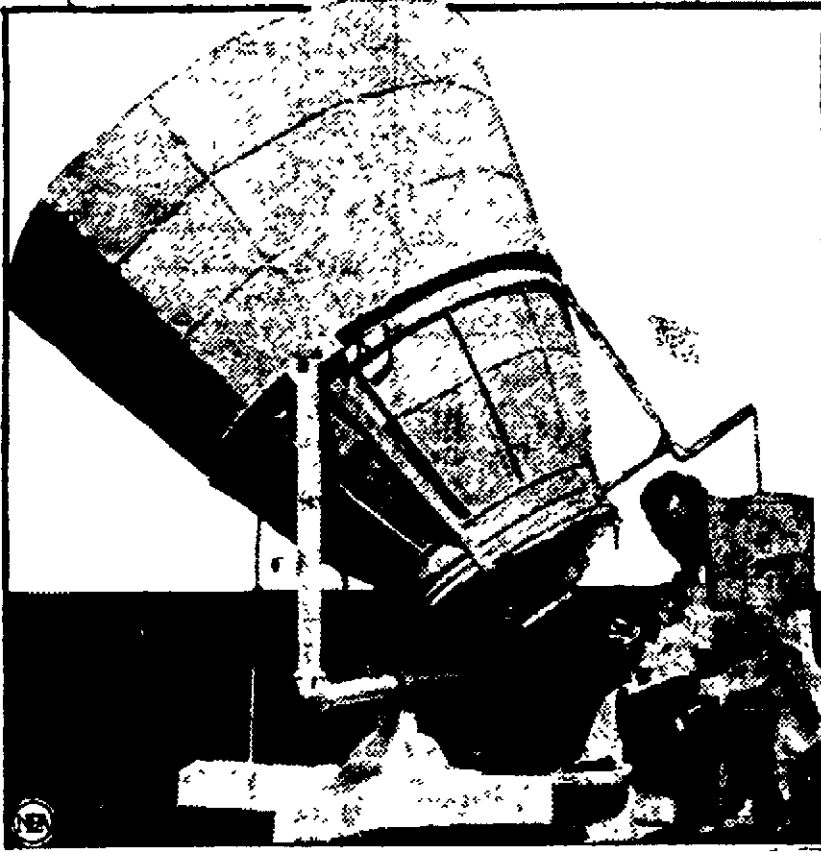

Produce a temperature of 15,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Furnish power so long as the sun shines.

Generate electricity and store it in storage batteries.

Moreau has his three machine completed and in operation. They are nicely balanced combinations of mirrors and magnifying glasses.

In his heat machine he has seen diamonds bubble and disappear in gaseous form. Carbon, which is fluid at 610 degrees, has melted with a fraction of the power his heat machine developed. He believes he can double

NORRIS CHALLENGES NEBRASKA OPPONENTS

(By The Associated Press.)

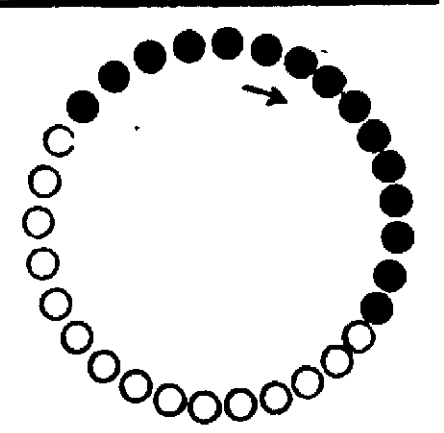

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, issued a challenge today to his opponents in Nebraska, who, he said, have attempted to rule him out of the Republican party by requesting a statewide primary with his recall from the Republican ticket as the issue.

In a letter to the chairman of the Republican State Committee, Senator Norris said he received his nomination for the Senate at the recent Republican primary and denied the right of any of these self-appointed censors of the Republican party to have anything to say about his withdrawal.

"However, I am a believer in the recall, and I am willing that it should be applied to me even though there be no specific provision of the law for such application," the letter said. "I suggest, therefore, that as official head of the Republican party in Nebraska, you call a statewide primary to be held in the manner provided for by law, and that at such primary my recall as the Republican candidate for senator, be submitted to the qualified electors."

DAILY PUZZLE

Two brothers had 30 sheep, 15 black, 15 white. They stood the sheep in a circle, and decided to count around to the tenth sheep, which was to be removed by brother A as his property. The count was to continue on ten more, and the next sheep on which the count ended was also to be taken away by A, and so until A had 15 sheep. The remaining 15 were to be B's. B cleverly arranged the sheep so that A received the 15 black ones. How were the sheep placed and where did the count begin?

JAPAN PROVIDES DIVERS' SUITS FOR CREWS OF SUBMARINES
TOKIO, May 17.—The Japanese navy, seeking to minimize the danger of its submarine service, recently demonstrated with terrible vividness by the loss of two submarines with their crews, plans to purchase safety suits, resembling divers' garb, for its submarine crews.

It is believed these suits will enable some of the men to save themselves by opening the submarine and fighting their way to the surface. The American navy, according to word here, has been successful in the manufacture of such safety uniforms.

TIN CANS AND PACKING BOXES

MAKE MISSIONARY FURNITURE
CHICAGO, May 19.—Salvaged packing boxes and tin containers, usually a problem in disposal for the furniture and house-hold utility in the missionary manual training department of the Moody Bible Institute here.

Where the municipal dump would have been the place, the missionaries in isolated places probably received another piece or two for his comfort, and it is to them that most of the output goes at no expense. It serves another purpose, the institute points out, that of demonstrating to the native the value of thrift.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

NEW YORK, May 20.—Having seen all but two eastern crews in regattas, the temptation is strong to pick Yale as the best by all odds of the eastern crews. But Syracuse is yet to be seen in an important regatta, as well as the navy. So opinion has to be withheld for the time being.

The fact remains, however, that for power, rhythm, beauty of poise and deliberate ease of execution this Ell eight stands out among the best combinations the writer has seen. Unless Yale enters the Olympic trials, or sends her varsity to the American Henley she will be in more races of intermediate distances.

There remains but the four-mile race against Harvard on the Thames. This is never an event to be discounted but if Yale loses the defeat will constitute one of the great sporting surprises of the year. The Washington eight, although yet to be seen in the east this year, there is not the slightest reason for not granting the Huskies every right to kinship with this Yale crew and the ply is they are not to meet.

Watching those three Yale crews, the varsity, junior varsity and freshman, one was struck by the similarity of their style and general watermanship, which showed for one thing that Edward Leaders has a comprehensive eye and a far-reaching capacity. This is never an event composed of men as brash, as intelligent and as devoted as all the ship this season. Yet not since the early 1900's with two or three notable exceptions, has she sent out so accomplished an eight. And she has had mentors who knew even more about watermanship than Leaders—or at least were equipped with a broader, more varied experience.

The answer is, of course, that Leaders has the gift of imparting something to his men, just as in the classroom there are professors who can drive knowledge into their pupils and others who can not.

ROANOKE COLLEGE LOSES CHANCE OF STATE TITLE

(By The Associated Press.)

BLACKSBURG, Va., May 19.—Roanoke College shattered the state championship aspirations of Virginia Tech here today by taking the Gobblers tribe into camp to the tune of six to three. It was Tech's first defeat of the season by a state team. It was a case of too much Burchstar hurler for the Maroons, and he had the Gobblers eating out of his hand except in the eighth when an error, a hit batsman and three hits let in three runs.

Rommell returned to the mound for the home team after an absence of several days, due to a strained side, and pitched fine ball. ROOKIE BOONE CONTINUES TO POUND THE BALL

BOSTON, May 19.—Wildness by Holloway, Pillette and Clark, and hits by Wamby, Veach and Harris in the second inning gave Boston six runs and a double and a single, whereupon he got the hook. Bob Matland was sent to the mound and got away with the inning, but when Teague, O'Hara and D. Harris singled successively in the third and fourth, the pitcher's error, the hurler was lucky to get by with two runs against him. He started the fourth, but "Railroad" Ray smashed out a double, Pitcher Euliss chipped in a single, and then it was "the showers" for Bob.

Lawrence Wilson then went in and retired the side, yielding one hit, but ever before doing so. Then came the fifth, which Wilson opened by passing Dave Harris, and "Mollie" Cox reciprocated the courtesy by hammering one over the score-board. With the score 8 to 1 against him, Manager Murphy hit Wilson in the sixth, but let Wilson grin and endure it. In the sixth O'Hara had Dave Harris successfully clouted the ball for a circuit, with nobody on in either case. Three singles and a sacrifice in the seventh netted two more runs, and two hits in the eighth, the eighth account for Greensboro's final score.

Manager Herb Murphy was almost "the whole cheese" for Danville, driving out three hits, including a two-bagger, in four times at bat, while in the field he had the remarkable record for a shortstop, erroring on his final chance. The local team did not seem to be in its usual form. Even Dave Cochlin, rapid-fire heavy to bases, had a passed ball and allowed Mike Fuhrey to swipe both second and third in the fifth, probably because Wilson let the runner get too big a lead. Belk had an off-day at second, and Trefrey seemed unable to field ground balls. Probably the fielding feature of the game, if such a listless game had any, was Teague's catch of Regan's Texas leaguer beyond second sack in the fifth.

The Danville batsmen seemed unable to take advantage of their scoring opportunities. In the second inning, for instance, Euliss passed both Reeco and Belk, yet with nobody on the next three batters were unable to advance them, even. Tangeman fanned, Cochlin drove a long fly to Irby, and Matland forced Belk at

GREENSBORO TAKES THE OPENER FROM DANVILLE

It was Monday and Ladies' Day—a combination too much for the Danville baseball team with the Greensboro team. The Greensboro team won the opener 13 to 4 by which Charles Carroll's Greensboro clan "brought home the bacon."

Manager Murphy used three pitchers, and the visitors abused them—shamefully. Manager Carroll used two, but just why he withdrew Euliss when the game was already won beyond peradventure was not apparent. Euliss had yielded but six hits in five and a third innings, but the management sent him to the dug-out and called on the veteran Rube Crews, who alternated his slow-out-pitching with fast one and made the local spectators look like amateurs at bat.

Shoaf began the game by walking Irby, and Belk made his first boot on Teague's grounder. Not very encouraging for a pitcher, surely, but he was obviously not in form, opening the second inning with a walk, a hit, a hit, a hit, and then being pounded for a double and a single, whereupon he got the hook. Bob Matland was sent to the mound and got away with the inning, but when Teague, O'Hara and D. Harris singled successively in the third and fourth, the pitcher's error, the hurler was lucky to get by with two runs against him. second, in the third, with two gone. Murphy hit for two bases, but the ben man could do was to force a walk on the fifth, but Wilson fanned, and so did Trefrey, Regan flying to Teague for the final out.

The substitution of the veteran Crews for Euliss in the sixth probably cut short a promising batting rally, but that was Danville's spring effort, for Crews had them eating out of his hand for the remainder of the game.

Dave Harris, the Greensboro right fielder, was the real batting star of the game, being credited with four hits for eight total bases in four times at bat.

The game was a long-drawn-out affair and an endurance contest for most of the nearly 2,500 spectators, a majority of whom were ladies.

Pirates Lick Giants; Red Sox Beat Tigers; Reds Idle

WESTERN CLUBS WIN ONE MORE GAME THAN EAST

(By The Associated Press.) NEW YORK, May 20.—Western clubs in each league have won one more game than their eastern rivals in the present intersection series. In the National, playing on their home grounds, the western representatives have won 17 and lost 16 games. The series in this league has been featured by the failure of the sectional leaders, New York and Cincinnati, to cope with supposedly weaker opponents, like St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia.

In the American League, the west has won 14 and lost 13. The Athletics have won only two of their eight struggles with other eastern teams have outplayed the invaders except the St. Louis Browns, who have won four of their games. In both leagues the west has captured 31 of 60 games.

On a rainy field at Pittsburgh yesterday, the champion Giants continued their unimpressive work and slid out of first place by losing to the Pirates 6 to 3, while Cincinnati was prevented from meeting Brooklyn by rain which also postponed the Boston-St. Louis and Philadelphia-Chicago games in the National.

McGraw's fortunes, rising and falling as his pitchers vacillate, descended ed with John Watson, whose wildness decorated almost every Pirate run. Irish and Terry erred amidst four hits and a walk in the sixth inning and the Pirates scored 4 runs which a ninth inning Giant rally failed to match. Morrison pitched a good game.

Only two games were scheduled in the American League. Boston defeated Detroit 9 to 1 and pulled a half game away from St. Louis and to within one contest of the leading Yankees. Witness by three Tiger pitchers in the second inning was mixed with three hits for six Red Sox runs. Heilmann had two of the six Tiger hits off Ehmske.

In the other game the Athletics won their second contest in 17 starts by beating the White Sox 4 to 3. Rommel twirled fine ball after an absence of several days from the line up. Each team made four two base hits.

Eddie Collins was appointed acting manager of the White Sox during the absence of Johnny Evers, who is recovering from an operation. Dennis Gairin, pitcher, was released to the Braves after being with the Giants since last summer. Manager McGraw, visited by the recurrence of an old knee injury, was absent from the bench at Pittsburgh.

Greensboro—Irby walked. Teague was safe on Belk's error. O'Hara struck out. Harris singled and Irby scored. Gibson running for Teague was run down between third and second. Cox fled out to Tangeman. One run, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING
Greensboro—Carroll walked. Fuhrey doubled. Ray singled and Carroll and Fuhrey scored. Shoaf pitched Ray out and Maitland went in to pitch. Ray went to second on a passed ball. Eullis went to second on a passed ball. Irby hit to left field. Ray sliding into man on tag. Ray safe at first. The third, Irby being safe at first. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING
Greensboro—Teague opened with a single through the pitcher's box. O'Hara singled by third. Besides completing the heavyweight division, headway was made in four other weight class preliminaries. 52 of the 149 scheduled bouts being finished.

Greathouse was awarded the final bout by default as a result of injuries to the hand of "Rage" Madera. Pittsburgh, Penna., State football player, the other finalist.

FITZSIMMONS OUT OF BOUT PROMOTION
(By The Associated Press.) CHICAGO, May 20.—Floyd Fitzsimmons, credited with the original promotion of the Carpenter-Gibbons bout at Michigan City, May 31, has been officially declared out of it by Frank Parker, financier of the enterprise, says today's Chicago Herald and Examiner. Parker, with Joe Coffey, wrestling promoter, has formed a corporation to finance and stage the contest at the time and place named, the newspaper says.

Turkeys are so named because when they were first imported into England, it was generally believed they were from Turkey.

BLACK GOLD'S VICTORY MOST POPULAR OF ALL HORSE RACES

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.) LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 20.—Derby day at Churchill Downs is the glorious leveler. Harry F. Sinclair, the oil magnate, leasee of Teapot Dome, came from New York in a private car. Harry Payne Whitney came from New York in a private car. August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club in the East, came from New York in a private car. Yet all of these stars of the American turf had to take their hats off to an old fashioned little lady from Oklahoma—a Kentucky girl named Black Gold.

In all the days of American racing, there never has been such a popular victory. Owned in Oklahoma, but bred in Old Kentucky, Black Gold was the hero of horses in the Derby, and as he galloped to victory in the stretch there was cheering such as no other horse in American history ever has heard. When he had flashed by the wire, ten thousand enthusiasts in Kentucky rushed out upon the track. The writer has seen races everywhere else in the United States, at the New Market and Epsom Downs in England, at Yonchamps in France, but never was there such a sight as this—the clanking of the common people to pay tribute to the horse of the common people which had won the richest stake in American turfdom.

When they tell you that the Kentucky derby is the real love of horseflesh here, you can believe it. Tens of thousands of persons rushed to the track at 5 o'clock in the morning. They immediately lined the rail and they stayed there for more than eight hours until the derby was run. They did not move, they couldn't. It is said by observers there were 90,000 persons at the derby. Not a third of these could get anywhere near the betting machines. Yet their enthusiasm knew no bounds.

They cheered when the bugle blew for the derby. They cheered when the horses first appeared on the track. They cheered as the 13 starters lined up at the barrier. They cheered when the cry went up "they're off," and oh boy, how they cheered when Black Gold, the hope of Kentucky and all the West, went jamming down the stretch in a rush which was not to be denied.

There never has been such a victory. There never may be again. It was a victory of the lowly over the rich, of the humble over the mighty. Mrs. Hoots, the widow of an Indian out Oklahoma way, has a four-horse stable. Black Gold is the stable horse. The derby means much to her. It was her tradition as well as that of the Kentucky Jockey Club, and yet to Mrs. Hoots there were other things besides the horses.

She was amazed at the fashion that she saw about her—the flared chignons, the painted organdies, the darning colors of red and yellow and blue. The clubhouse lawns made the

Virginia League Clubs Now Within the Player Limit

(By The Associated Press.) PETERSBURG, Va., May 20.—With the release of Outfielder Thompson and Infielder Meyers, the Goobers are now within the player limit. The Petersburg club now has three outfielders, four infielders, two catchers and 5 pitchers. The Goobers have acquired Pitcher Kelly from the Rochester Hustlers and another pitcher will have to be released when he reports in Portsmouth to Manager Konetchy either today or tomorrow. Manager Konetchy has not hinted, which urler will be cast adrift when he adds the name of Kelly to the local roster.

NORFOLK CUTS TEAM
(By The Associated Press.) NORFOLK, Va., May 20.—The Norfolk Tars have waited till summer to start their spring training and the business of cutting down to the Virginia League limit will develop into a delicate transaction that will tax wits and finesse of Win Clark to the limit. Releases of Third Basemen Wamack, suspension of First Baseman Attreau and loan to Wilson of Catcher Hipple made room for addition of Outfielder Riggs, of last year's team, first baseman and pitcher Mollie Chaff, secured from Memphis, Catcher Red Fisher and Shortstop Carlin. In addition to these the club is now composed of Pitchers Zellars, Gillerwater, Brillheart, Jones, Infielder Watt, Maitland, Outfielders Burke Parrett, and Catcher Funk. His hand-to-hand fight.

RALEIGH GETS DEAN
(By The Associated Press.) RICHMOND, Va., May 20.—The Richmond Colts came within the player limit rule of the Virginia League, effective today, with the farming out of Tommy Dean to the Raleigh club of the Piedmont League. The team with which Manager Jack Onslow probably will go through the season is composed of Weaver, first base; Lacey second base; Stack third base; Aragon, shortstop; Malone, right field and Onslow and Abbott, catchers. Dodson, Manning, Newberry, Miley and Hayes make up the pitching staff.

Stribling Fights O'Dowd Tonight

(By The Associated Press.) ATLANTA, Ga., May 20.—W. L. (Young) Stribling, youthful pugilist sensation, will meet Dan O'Dowd, of Boston in a ten-round bout here tonight, which his supporters hope will lead to a return match this year with Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion. It will be Stribling's first fight in his home town since he whipped McTigue in Newark several weeks ago.

In the semi wind up Billy McGowan, Stribling's sparring partner, will meet Harry Korhn, of Kron, Ohio.

Harris Will Pitch For Locals Today

After dropping the Greensboro game yesterday, Dan Harris will pitch today for the Danville team in a game which will be the second of the series. Manager Herb Murphy this morning announced that Cudde Harris will be started in the box.

With the closing of the series tomorrow, the Tobaccoists will journey to Raleigh to complete the week. They return next week for six straight to play High Point and Greensboro.

Grandstand Gaff

HE opening game and Ladies' Day combination has begun to have disastrous effect on the locals. Yesterday's game with Greensboro was a reminder of the preceding Monday when The Bulls licked the Tobaccoists—only worse. Seems to be a habit again as it was last year and a might bad one too. Come on boys, let's get out of that old rut and make up today and tomorrow. Harris will pitch today and if he's in his usual form, not such an encounter as that of yesterday will be seen.

A peculiar aspect of the game (or perhaps it was the good work of the Greensboro pitchers) was that anytime in the game, man got a hit, the next one or two were certain to strike out. Did you notice it?

Loughran and Stone Fight to Dray in Phila.

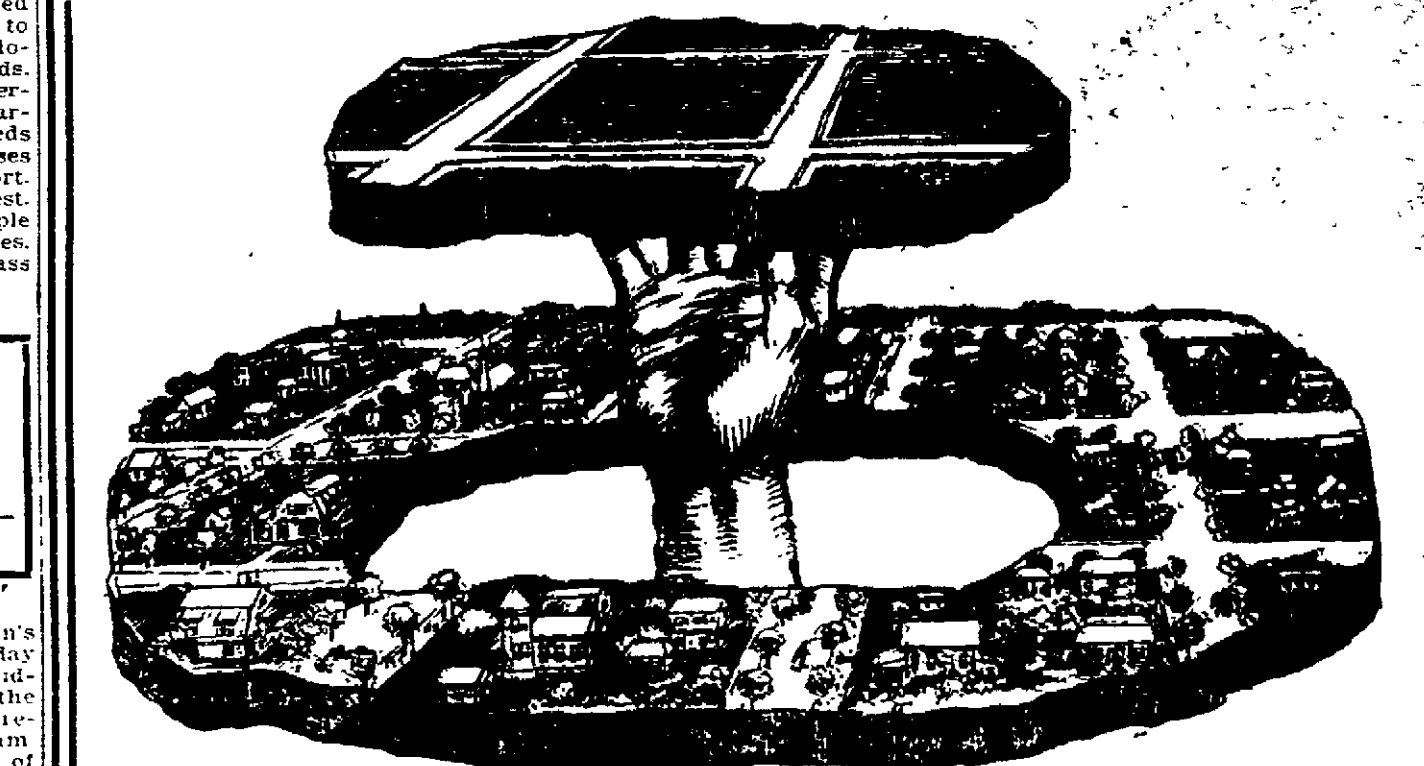

(By The Associated Press.) PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—The flistic supremacy of Ad Stone, of Patterson, N. J., and Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, both aspirants to the light heavyweight title held by Mike McTigue, was still undecided today. Their slashing ten round bout last night having resulted in a draw. It was their first meeting. The referee made the decision after the judges had disagreed.

The boxing commission's decision was a continuous volley of straight lefts. More than once the local man jabbed himself out of danger.

The "fighting marine" waged an aggressive battle carrying the fight to Loughran, who although willing to trade punches occasionally, played a defensive game, clinching often and trying to keep the going at long range with spear-like jabs.

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.) NEW YORK, May 20.—Princeton's track victory over Harvard Saturday by a score of 2-1-2, 13-12, was a painful defeat administered the preceding weekend by Yale's track team. And so was needed, in view of the fact that the great Yale rowing crew added Princeton to its list of victories on Lake Carnegie, while Harvard murdered the Tiger baseball team at Cambridge by a score of 7-0, knocking Caldwell, the Princeton pitching star, out of the box. Although Princeton was the Penn inter-collegiate meet at Philadelphia, Frank Hussey lowered the mark for the hundred yards to 3-2-10 and was clocked in one of his heats in 2-4-5, which is interesting to the Olympic committee and also to the Princeton community. THAW MUST ANSWER TO GUMP ASSAULT

NEW YORK, May 18.—Harry K. Thaw will be arrested on a bench warrant and brought to New York to answer an old indictment charging assault against Fred Gump, Jr., of Kansas City, immediately when his financial lease is signed in Philadelphia. District Attorney Banton said today.

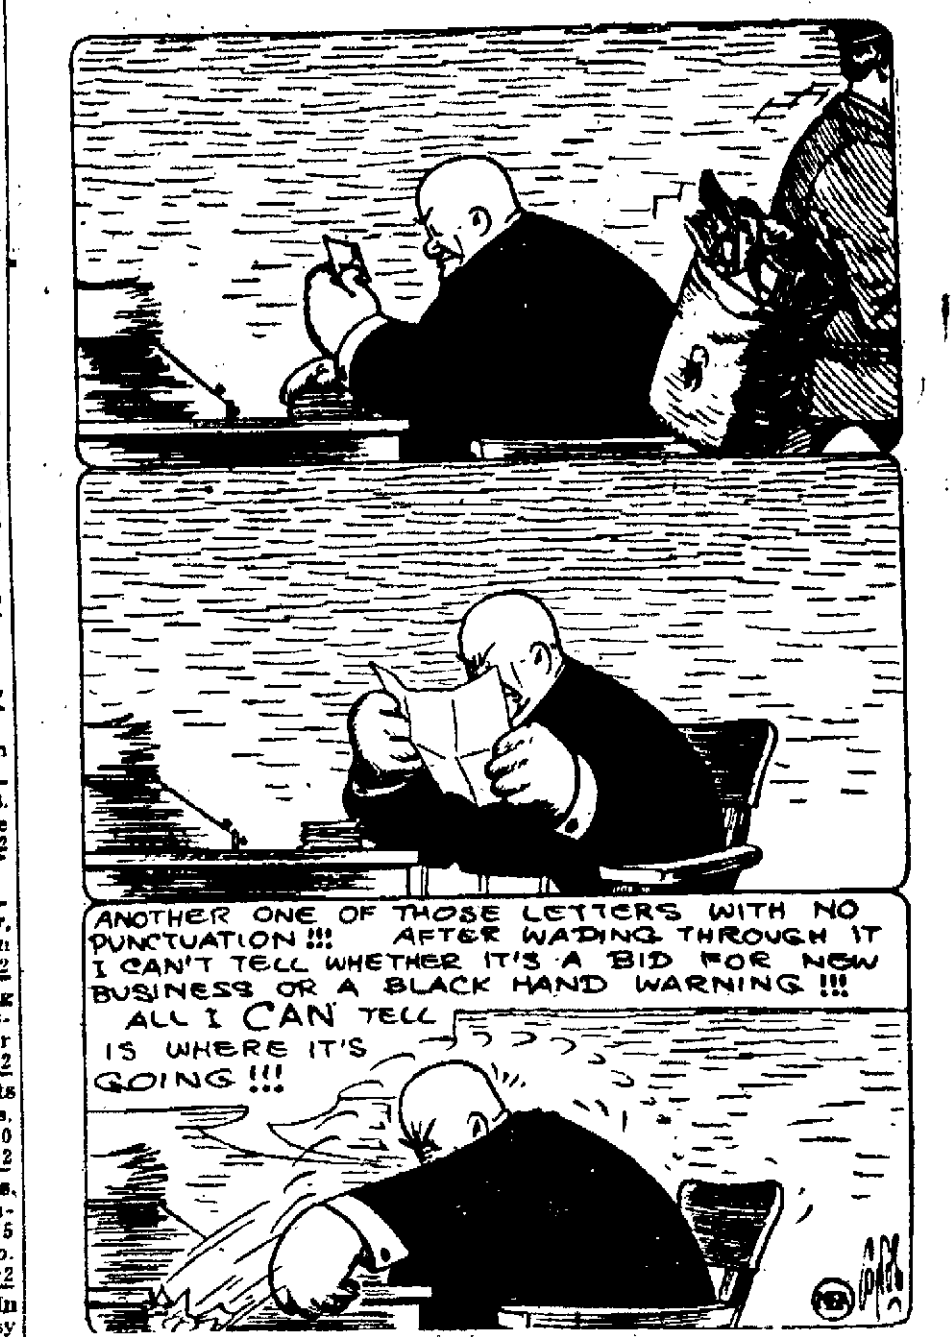

Mr. Banton said he would then communicate with young Gump and his father, who now are in California, and try to have them come here as witnesses. Thaw made a settlement of the Gump case in the courts when it was understood an agreement was reached not to press the criminal prosecution. For this reason, Mr. Banton is uncertain whether the Gumps will respond to his request.

Fate Leads Boy to Mother.

HOWARD MCCONNELL AND HIS BIRTH PICTURE WHICH LED TO MOTHER, WITH (INSET) HIS REUNION.

By HAROLD MATSON

LYNN, Mass., May 19.—A son, 20, has just met his mother for the first time since he has been out of swaddling clothes.

He comes to her, after 17 years, at a time when she needs him most. She is poor. Her little farm in Maine is heavily mortgaged. She is sickly.

"And I was so afraid I would be just a stranger to you," the son told his mother. "I am happy to have found you, and I am happier that I can be a real son to you."

Howard McConnell's story is one of strange complications—the sort one finds in the movies. Mystery, action, the unexpected, and the happy ending.

When he was three years old his father kidnapped him from his mother. They had agreed to separate, but neither could agree to give up the boy. Police, the mother's relatives and friends were unable to find Howard after the kidnapping.

His father had taken him to North Handley, Quebec, and there he was brought up, believing that his aunt was his true mother.

It was not until Howard was 17 that he learned the truth.

His "mother" was ill. One afternoon on his way home from school, a relative hurried to meet him. His "mother" was dying. The doctor had said it was but a matter of minutes.

Howard raced home. In the sick room the woman lying on the bed beckoned to him, and drew his head down close to her mouth that he would be sure to hear her whisper.

"I am not your mother," she gasped—but she could tell no more. Death had intervened.

"It was almost like suffering the loss twice," McConnell tells of his tragedy. "I had loved and worshipped her as my own mother—at the time I almost wished she had not told me the truth."

The shock, with its ante-climax, was almost more than the boy could bear. Running away from his home he set out to find his real mother. All he had as means of identification was a picture of himself when he was a baby, a picture his mother might also have.

For a year he searched through the eastern states. Discouraged, desperate he joined the navy. Wherever he went he continued his hunt.

But it was not until early this month that he came across a tangible clue as to the whereabouts of his mother.

McConnell had left the navy and was but two weeks in the army, stationed at Fort Slocum, New York, when he met a relative of his

Chinese Girls Defy Ancient Traditions

(By The Associated Press)

PEKING, May 19.—"I cannot bear the tyrannical rule at home, therefore I have decided to return. I shall cut off my hair and become a nun." In these words Pei Chiu, an emancipated Chinese girl, is said to have defied her father after he had reprimanded her for writing for certain Chinese magazines in the subjects of democracy, feminine freedom and love. The father has appealed to the police to help him find his wayward offspring.

Further evidence that the Chinese maiden of today is unwilling to have her future arranged for her without a voice in the proceedings comes from Hangchow, in Chekiang province.

Tsai Tseng, nineteen, a pupil of one of the local schools, decided to have a "look see" at the man selected for her by her father. Finding him as she expected, uncouth and a country lad, she expostulated with father. Not willing to offend his old friend, the prospective bridegroom's father, the parent of the girl managed to secure her conditional promise. The young man must dress himself in foreign clothes for three months and at the end of each week must present himself for inspection.

"It is too early to talk about marriage," the girl is reported to have declared. "I will wait and see if he can get rid of his country ways."

mother. On a leave of absence he came to Lynn.

But by a similarly peculiar coincidence, Mrs. Marian McConnell Mason of Wellington, Me., had come to Lynn. She was ill and friends here were caring for her.

Mother and son met, brought together by George W. Kitchell, the boy's grandfather.

And now action is being taken to have the son released from the army. That he may support the mother whom he has just met—for the first time.

An application of cold water to the top of the head, it is said, will produce sleep.

Higher Purposes Need of America

NEW YORK, May 19.—The fundamental problem now facing us is the restoration of high purpose in America," said William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury at a meeting today of the Independent Democratic convention entertainment committee. It was his first address here after entering the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"For the last three years, we have had a complete degradation of idealism in America," he said. "That noble idealism that marked the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, all the ideas he represented were jeered at during the last election an exaltation of materialism. We are now reaping the inevitable fruits of political and moral debauchery."

Deriding "normalcy" as a word that stood for obsolete and outworn things and methods, Mr. McAdoo urged restoration of "applied democracy to public life and the philosophy of government."

Essential Points.

"Among the things essential to our welfare," he added, "is an enlightened policy of international cooperation. Such cooperation, I want to point out, by no means involves the surrender of our rights of sovereignty."

"I am sometimes asked by people as to wherein lies the essential difference between the two great parties. Well, the essence of the difference is this:

"The Republican party stands for 'special privileges for some, equal opportunities for none,' while the Democratic party upholds the principle of 'equal opportunities for all; special privileges for none.'"

McAdoo's speech was preceded by an introductory address by Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut who said that "all the forces of progressive democracy" were gathering about the former secretary of the treasury.

Mr. McAdoo told newspaper men after his speech that he would outline his attitude toward the Ku Klux Klan and his views on the advisability of nominating a presidential candidate by a majority vote in the Democratic

Stock Prices Take Tumble

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 20.—Stock prices crumbled sharply at the opening of today's stock market under an avalanche of selling orders. Undoubtedly inspired by the passage of the soldier bonus bill over the president's veto, industrial favorites broke one to six points on initial sales with Baldwin, Dupont, Gulf States Steel and Stewart-Warner Speedometer selling at their lowest prices of the year.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Dupont each fell a point below yesterday's final figures while General Electric, Baldwin, Stewart-Warner, American Can, Davison Chemical and Willys Overland preferred dropped 2 1/2 to nearly 4 points. Bear traders were heavy sellers of the speculative favorites but much of the liquidation came from traders who had bought stocks within the last week in the hope that the president's veto would be sustained. Absence of organized support at the opening resulted in the sharp breaks but it was not long before buying orders were well distributed and a recovery was under way.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe rallied 4 1/2 points from its early low. Dupont recovered 3 points and Gulf States

Steel, Baldwin, Davison Chemical, American Can and General Electric snapped back a point or more.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Passage of the soldier bonus bill over the president's veto brought a flood of selling orders into the stock market, opening prices of industrial and railroad favorites showing losses of 1 to 3 1/4 points. American Sugar Refining, Crucible and Gulf States Steels, Davison Chemical, New York Central, American Woolen, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Willys-Overland pfd. sagged 1 to 2 3/4 points on initial sales. Baldwin broke 3 points to 10 1/2, a new low; U. S. Steel dropped 2 to 35 1/2 and General Electric broke 3 1/2.

The break was one of the sharpest in recent months, Dupont and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe rallying 4 1/2 and 4 1/2 points respectively. The lowest prices were recorded in the first few minutes, a brisk recovery setting in before the end of the first hour with prices of most favorites snapping back to yesterday's closing figures. SOME TRAVELER!

Louise Schmidt's daddy came over from Germany seven years ago when she was just a baby. He intended to bring his wife and little girl to the United States just as soon as he could have enough money. But the mother died. "Daddy" Schmidt, however, finally was able to buy his "baby's" passage. And she made the long trip to San Francisco, where her father lives, all by herself.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The disposition of the bonus bill suggests two important questions in which the public in general and the financial centers in particular are vitally interested. One is the question of reduced taxes, which has been shattered and is the political complexion of the country to be changed at the fall elections.

We have the views of the secretary of the treasury that tax reduction in any form has been imperilled while all shades of opinion reflect emphasis on the stimulus of the president's leadership has received as a result of the measure support from his own party.

It is said all clouds have a silver lining that one may be no exception. The time seems opportune to apply the philosophy of the colored gentleman who had had a heap of trouble in his time but most of it never happened.

It is fortunate that public interest in the market is at a low ebb and that a fairly substantial short account exists. Should today's market reflect disappointment of security owners, it will not be surprising if shorts will be found willing to avail themselves of the opportunity to cover some of their previous sales.

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

PENALTY

Convicted of stealing $23 and a watch from a sailor named Kama, a man in Brooklyn, N. Y., is sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary. War profiteers, reading this, will realize how fortunate they are.

The fellow who robbed the sailor was handed about a year for every dollar of loot. If the same system were applied to the war-profiteering looters, a dollar a year, some of them would be in jail. Boy, fetch an adding machine.

CRIME

A Chicago man, accused of a $30,000 swindle, is quoted as indignantly protesting in the court: "What, me take $30 grand! Not me, judges. I don't waste my time unless there's a hundred thousand bucks in it."

It is sometimes much safer to steal a million than $5, unfortunately, when it comes to the law and punishment. But the law doesn't make the distinction. It's just that the rich thief can afford an army of crafty lawyers able to find loopholes or delay the case. The small-time crook isn't able to hire such an array of "talent."

LOSERS

Cable from London reports that the British during the first four months of this year imported about 400 million dollars worth of goods more than they exported. This puts them in the hole at the rate of 1200 million dollars a year.

And in this situation is the key of present British diplomacy. Above all, they want trade—customers. That's why they hand an olive branch to Russia and insist on reparations settlement such that Germany and buying power. The flag follows trade more than trade follows the flag.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—The cotton market opened easier on poor Liverpool cables and as a result of the passage of the bonus bill. The issuing of notices for 8,700 bales on May contracts in New York was also a depressing influence. First trades showed losses of 24 to 25 points and prices eased off 12 points additional on July and 4 on October right after the opening call, the former month trading down to 28.48 and later to 24.26 or 37 and 28 points below the previous close. The market then rallied fairly on prospects for unfavorable weather in the western belt, recovering 16 to 26 points from the early low.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 20.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 15 to 35 points under liquidation and selling was also influenced by the opening decline in the stock market, relatively easy Liverpool cables and uncertainty as to the effect of the Washington news on general business.

May sold off to 30.95 and October to 25.07 at the opening but trade interests were buyers at the decline and prices soon steadied on reports of a rally in the stock market and covering. May sold up to 31.07 and October to 25.28 in the first half hour, making recoveries of 12 to 20 points from the lowest. There were 89 May notices reported in circulation and they caused some liquidation of near months.
